THE SILVER CAUSE GAINING.

The wail of distress sounded yesterday morning in the dispatches from Washington, which told of the discouragement of the goldites and the aggressive and potent campaign waged by the silver men, is good to read. The goldites have lost their confidence. The silver men have lost their discouragement. This is precisely as it should be, and affords the tonic to this region that it needs, and it should be a mighty encouragement to the country at large. The silver men, we are told, gain confidence and votes daily; and, this, too, is precisely as it should be, because the argument is all on their side. The showing they make that silver is the more stable of the two metals and more nearly conforms to the average rise and fall of prices of all main commodities than does gold, is simply irresistible. Silver clearly and plainly shown to be the more stable and the more accurate measure of values. It is absolutely shown that gold is the more fluctuating of the two metals, and by reason of its scarcity and the great changes it is subject to in its relation with prices in general, it is unfit to be the sole measure of values among commercial peoples. The fight is going on all right. Let the silver men gather strength in the advance they have already made, and press on to final triumph.—Salt Lake Tribune.

What a Woman Says.

That women should flock to both Houses of Congress denotes more interest than curiosity. Women can no more live without money than men. They can get on with less as a rule, but they need their little regularly and promptly. They are heavy investors in all sorts of securities. They view with alarm a shrinkage in values for which they are not responsible and for which few can account. A sex that holds bank stock alone to the amount of $130,000,000 has very good reason to watch legislation.—Kate Field's Washington.

The Fresno Republican demands to know if Cleveland would dare to veto a free coinage bill. We thought it pretty well established that Grover dares to do right every time, and if he vetoes a free coinage bill it will be because he does not propose to enforce inferior dollars on the people. If the free coinage dollar is honest he will give it his sanction.—Sac. News.

The APPEAL would like to ask the Sacramento News what it means by "inferior" dollars, and what it means by honest or dishonest free coinage dollars. And also whether it can define the difference between a free coinage dollar and any other kind. If the dollar coined under the present law contains only a 50 or 60 cents worth of silver, silver only being worth about 73 cents per ounce; and admitting that free coinage would raise the price of the white metal, this making a coined dollar contain at least 100 cents worth of silver; then we would like to ask of the News which is the dishonest dollar; the one which costs the Government less than 100 cents and is stamped "One Dollar," or the one indicated by the News?

The gold tide which flowed from the United States to Europe for many months, has changed. Since the 28th of July about $30,000,000 in gold has arrived at New York from Europe and it is still coming at an average of about $2,000,000 a day. If the Sherman act was the cause of the export of gold, as the anti-silver men allege, how is it that gold is now coming from Europe with that act yet on the statutes, and no prospect of its unconditional repeal?—Journal.

The Eastern gold bug press is becoming a little shaky on the financial question as gold arguments are overthrown by the silverites, and some of them are beginning to show a decided leaning toward the side of silver. It must be rather discouraging to the gold papers, to be continually beaten in debate with silver papers.
